What's New in the Grokker?

Grokker is information visualization software for the web based on the concept of information mapping. Put simply, Grokker is an advance map of the information you find on the web. What is Grokker? In essence, Grokker is an interface between a browser and a great database of research you can "inspect" at your leisure. Grokker is a database that stores all of your research. If you saved your research, Grokker can find it. You can search your research by keywords or by tags or even by those things you would consider the "backstory" to your research. Grokker can also organize your research in categories that reflect all your research. Grokker displays your research results in an inverted pyramid, in a visual map. This means that when you view your research, all of your results will be in one location, ordered and grouped visually according to context. You can also save your information map to your hard drive for safe keeping, as well as print.

Grokker's intuitive software interface makes it easy to create and share your maps. Grokker
