At the risk of sounding a bit like a broken record, we have to reiterate that the sound you hear in headphones isn't always the sound that exists on your device. Some headphones that claim to produce "true-to-life" audio are in fact just decoding the audio from whatever digital signal it's decoding from, and replicating that as accurately as the decoding technology allows. For example, if the headphones are decoding a 5. A Headphones Buyer's Guide. Buy Headphones. · We Tested the Best Headphones (2020). Field of the Invention The present invention relates to folding cranes and more particularly pertains to a new portable folding car rack for holding two bicycles side by side in a substantially horizontal position with their wheel axles in alignment. 2. Description of the Prior Art The use of folding cranes is known in the prior art. More specifically, folding cranes heretofore devised and utilized are known to consist basically of familiar, expected and obvious structural configurations, notwithstanding the myriad of designs encompassed by the crowded prior art which have been developed for the fulfillment of countless objectives and requirements. Known prior art includes U.S. Pat. No. 3,388,579; U.S. Pat. No. 3,562,966; U.S. Pat. No. 5,127,127; U.S. Pat. No. 4,923,285; U.S. Pat. No. 3,921,886; and U.S. Pat. No. Des. 284,189. While these devices fulfill their respective, particular objectives and requirements, the aforementioned patents do not disclose a new portable folding car rack. The inventive device includes a frame that has a front leg section and a rear leg section. The front and rear leg sections each include first and second spaced apart side members. A first cross member extends between the first side members of the front and rear leg sections. A second cross member extends between the first side members of the front and rear leg sections. The frame has a first plurality of rack members for engaging a vehicle rack between the front and rear side members of the frame. Each of the rack members has a first end and a second end. The second ends of the rack members are pivotally coupled to the rear side members. Each of the second ends has a side member. The rack members are moveable between a first stored position and a second deployed position. A stop member extends between the second side members of the front and rear leg sections. The stop member is adapted for abutment with the vehicle rack when the rack members are in the first stored position. The stop member is adapted for abutment with the vehicle rack when the rack members are in the second deployed position.

Q: Create a tuple As I heard.`tuple()` is not possible to create after using `setstate(tuple)`, what's the best way to create a tuple with this format. ('HELLO', 'BYE')

A: Use `tuple()` instead of `setstate(tuple)` - `tuple` is actually a function that returns a tuple: In [14]: `tuple('HELLO', 'BYE')` Out[14]: ('HELLO', 'BYE')

Using `setstate(tuple)` would be meaningless - `setstate` expects a tuple, so it's always going to throw an exception when you pass it a string.

A: Your problem is that you're calling a `setstate` method on something that isn't a data structure. `tuple` is a function that returns a tuple, i.e. a data structure. You want to use `tuple` to build the tuple. First make sure to initialize the list with just one element, then then use that to create the tuple. from collections import namedtuple MyTuple = namedtuple("MyTuple", "a b") a = [1,2,3] t = MyTuple(*a) print(t) # If you want to create an empty tuple just assign the name to an empty tuple from collections import namedtuple MyTuple = namedtuple("MyTuple", "a b") t = MyTuple() print(t) # HPV-associated cancer: is cervical cancer the only form? To date, there have been over a dozen well-funded investigations of carcinogenic potential of the human papillomaviruses (HPV) with respect to cervical and other anogenital cancers. The studies have been designed to address the rate of infection, the incidence of persistent HPV infection, the risk of cancer, and the relationship between virus persistence and tumorigenesis. Epidemiologic data have established that it is possible that HPV is causally related to a subset of cervical cancers. It is likely
